

Jenny Campbell

Screen Painter

Bio

Born and raised in Essex, MD where I have been blessed with parents who have always encouraged my creativity. My mother was an artist in many mediums and my father owns a garage.

Upon graduating high school, I went into the photography industry as a darkroom technician with that career ending after many years in professional labs and 20 years with The Walters Art Museum.

With my Dad having been born in a rowhome in Highlandtown, I have always been aware of Baltimore painted screens and taught myself the art form in 1998. My screen painting ended when I moved to New Orleans in 2012 to start my business of designing and creating costumes.
